Future's bright thanks to fundraising runners

MORE than 1,000 runners turned Luton's Wigmore Valley Park into a rainbow as they got covered from head to toe in colourful powder for charity.

It was the town's biggest 5k Colour Dash yet as runners of all ages set off from the starting line last Sunday.

The event has raised more than £52,000 for Keetch Hospice so far - a big jump from the £37,500 raised last year - with sponsorship money still coming in thick and fast.

Mark Relf, the hospice's regional and events fundraising manager, said: "We expect more money to come through so we could even hit £60,000 but we won't know for sure until all of the sponsorship money has come in."

Two in dock for Atul murder

BY KATY HALLAM
editor@lsmmedia.co.uk

A MAN was bound, beaten and had chemicals poured on him by two men after his 'drugs and money', a jury has heard.

Forty-seven-year-old Atul Shah died from multiple injuries sometime between 4am and 6am on January 6, Luton Crown Court heard Thursday.

Mr Shah had his hands and feet bound with a scarf, before being beaten on his head with an exercise dumbbell and having chemicals poured over him, it was claimed.

It was also claimed he was growing cannabis plants at his home.

Stuart Trimmer QC told the jury one of his teeth was discovered on the floor of his Crescent Road flat in Luton. A post mortem examination found three other teeth in his stomach.

Two men, Kyle Pitchford-Price, 23, of Dovehouse Hill, Luton and Luke West, 23, of Abbots Wood Road, Luton plead not guilty to murder. Mr West pleads guilty to manslaughter.

Opening the case, Stuart Trimmer QC alleged the pair went to his flat, together with Mr Pitchford-Price's girlfriend, Corrina Armstrong, 21, also of Dovehouse Hill, and Callum Holton, 19, of Milton Road, Luton to steal the drugs and other valuables. All four plead not guilty to conspiracy to rob Mr Shah. Mr Trimmer told the jury it was Mr Pitchford-Price and Mr West who entered the flat and attacked the victim, afterwards going to the Luton flat of 56-year-old Brian Edge, stepfather of Luke West, to 'clean up' and remove blood stained clothing.

The prosecutor told the jury Mr Pitchford-Price and Mr West were guilty of murder, adding: "They were both in it together."

Following their arrest Mr Pitchford-Price and his girlfriend claimed they were together in bed at the time of the alleged murder.

But Mr Trimmer told the court the day after the attack Mr West was heard to tell co-defendant Callum Holton that he had only hit Mr Shah twice, but that Mr Pitchford-Price had been smashing him in the face with a dumbbell.

Mr Pitchford-Price, Mr Holton and Miss Armstrong deny a charge of conspiracy to commit a burglary at Mr Shah's flat. Mr West pleads guilty to the offence.

Mr Edge denies assisting an offender by making his home available to the other defendants to clean up and doing an act tending or intended to pervert the course of public justice.

Mr Pitchford-Price and Miss Armstrong plead guilty to an offence of conspiracy to do an act tending or intended to pervert the course of public justice.

VICTIM: Atul Shah

Editor's Letter

Going on holiday is getting even harder

THIS time two weeks ago I was on a boat. Surrounded by the tranquil waters of the Norfolk Broads, I woke to the quacking of ducks and the rustling of trees overhead. I made a cup of tea using our stove kettle and sat on the bank watching the sun come up. It wasn't a bad start to the day. But before long I was wondering who had made it to the final two of the Tory leadership race. Then, because it was a Sunday, I began wondering how the paper had shaped up in my absence. Then I began thinking about the hundreds of emails which would be waiting for me on my return. Should I turn my phone on now and knock a few off the list? 'Switching off' is as much a physical as it is mental achievement. In reality, others are ok with not being able to get hold of us, or get an instant response. Speaking to friends and colleagues, I think most would agree the struggle is a personal one. It's about not thinking of Monday and, instead, making the most of Sunday. So enjoy your read this week.

£40m plans for university

BY JAMES AVERILL
editor@lsnmedia.co.uk

PLANS have been revealed for a new £40million building for teaching and research at the University of Bedfordshire's campus in Luton.

The four-storey building, which is due for completion by 2018, would be devoted to STEM subjects - Science, Technology, Engineering and Mathematics.

The building would be located on Park Street in the town centre, and allow the University to offer a range of new science courses including Pharmacy, Nutrition, Physics, Biochemistry, Chemistry, Geology and Mechanical Engineering.

It will also include a new Science and Engineering Outreach Centre to promote the value of science and engineering to local schools and the Bedfordshire community.

The University's Vice Chancellor, Bill

MODERN: An artist's impression of how the new STEM building in Park Street, Luton, will look

Rammell, said: "This is part of the University's wider vision for high-level skills growth in Luton and Bedfordshire, and part of an investment of £180million in cutting edge facilities by the University to transform our campuses."

"Over the past five years we have enhanced our learning and teaching facilities for students, creating jobs and growth in Luton, Bedford and its surrounding areas."

"Our new STEM building will support the ambitions of regional policymakers to enhance the skills base in Luton, extending opportunity for local residents and attracting investment to the region."

The news is also exciting for students, who believe the plans show an ambition from the University to keep improving.

Ashley Beckman-Whelan, Vice President for activities and engagement at BedsSU, the university's student union, told Luton On Sunday: "I think it's quite exciting. The university has just finished work on a new library building, and both of these will make the university look fresh and more modern."

"I think some of the students who have graduated this week will actually be quite jealous that they can't use it!"

Rules for every road in new parking plan

BY NICK SMITH

nick.smith@lutononsunday.co.uk

A TOWN-wide parking plan took its first step forward on Tuesday - with the council set to look at restrictions on a street-by-street basis.

At a full meeting of Luton Borough Council, Conservative councillor John Young proposed to impose rules against parking on grass verges in the town.

Liberal Democrat Cllr David Franks said the move was 'long overdue' as 'every single councillor has had complaints about parking in the town'.

But he admitted the job wouldn't be easy, saying: "It's going to be a massive task to undertake, as there is going to have to be different rules for different streets for it to work."

The Barnfield Cllr produced an amendment to the proposal, which stated: "[The council] is requested to use the appropriate legal processes to prohibit parking on highway verges in the Borough in the context of a properly thought through policy to allow two or four wheel pavement parking in places where this will improve traffic safety and still leave enough pavement width to comfortably accommodate wheelchairs, double child pushchairs etc. and ban all pavement parking everywhere else in Luton."

Cllr Young backed the proposal, but as long as grass verges were also included. During the meeting, he said: "I agree with Cllr Franks' amendment, but want grass verges to also be included, as people parking on them turns them into quagmires. "Luton is not going to be a place people want to invest in if they see that."

The next step is for the council's executive group to wait for a report and then make a decision on what to do going forward.

There is currently not a timescale of when the council's executive can expect to receive the report.

Council Notebook: A call for unity after Nice

A LOT has changed since Luton Borough Council met in May.

Aside from Luton, the meeting was used to discuss changes and challenges facing the wider world.

The Nice attacks put a solemn note on council introductions, which members reflected on at the start of the meeting.

Mayor of Luton, Cllr Tahir Khan, opened the meeting by saying: "Those events were a shocking reminder of the tactics used by people to spread hatred and fear into our community.

"We cannot allow terrorists and extremists of any kind to divide us."

Mr Khan then led the council chamber in a minute's silence.

In the light of Britain leaving the European Union, there has been a lot of talk of increased numbers of hate crimes across the country.

However, Liberal Democrat Councillor Alan Skepethorn was quick to praise Luton, noting a Polish man who was backed by his neighbour after the vote, as reported by LoS.

While there are problems across the world, it is good to see Luton standing strong against them.

88% of People Recover From Slipped Disc

Advertising feature

Advertising Feature

Are you suffering from back pain, arm or leg pain, numbness, tingling, or weakness in your arms or legs? Then it's likely you're suffering from a Slipped DISC. That's when one of your spinal discs is bulging or herniated and causing these, sometimes severe, symptoms because of the effect the disc is having on your nerve system.

You may have already had this diagnosed on an MRI and thought that there is little that can be done about it and that's a major problem: bad information, because in the right hands a lot can be done for you.

To end the misery caused by slipped discs you must have the right information. Pay close attention because I'm going to destroy some important myths and give you the facts.

MYTH: Slipped discs will just "go away" with some rest.

FACT: If you are dealing with back pain, buttock pain or leg pain, then you must seek help from a slipped disc specialist immediately. Left untreated a slipped disc can lead to permanent nerve damage - and lifelong pain.

MYTH: Pain is the only problem associated with slipped discs.

FACT: In severe cases, slipped discs can lead to the inability to control your bowels, bladder and sexual potency - leading to embarrassing situations.

MYTH: You must take pain medications to deal with slipped discs.

FACT: Drugs like muscle relaxants, pain killers, narcotics, antidepressants, and anti-seizure medications have serious potential side-effects and do not cure slipped discs.

MYTH: "I must have done something wrong to cause my disc to slip."

FACT: Physical work or simply sitting at a desk for long periods can lead to slipped discs. Accidents and trauma can also be the culprits. Pregnancy can cause damage. A slipped disc can happen to anyone - including super-fit celebrities like Tiger Woods, Sylvester Stallone, and British Olympic medalist Ian Wynne.

MYTH: Stop exercising and get several weeks of bed rest to let the slipped disc recover...

FACT: Staying active can help to the slipped disc recover and prevent the pain getting worse. Staying inactive in bed could be the worst advice - based on a recent study in the Netherlands.

MYTH: Slipped discs require surgery.

FACT: NO! There's been a huge breakthrough in the treatment of slipped discs. It's a new procedure called Non-Surgical Re-Constructive Spinal Care. The excellent results from this treatment have been published in major medical journals. Success rates are up to 90%.

MYTH: "There's nothing anyone can really do. I'm just stuck with this for the rest of my life."

FACT: With the correct treatment from a healthcare professional who specialises in slipped discs, you can find relief from the core cause - and the symptoms.

MYTH: Getting slipped discs properly diagnosed is expensive.

FACT: Not true. The Atlas Wellness Centre in Bedfordshire is currently offering an initial consultation with one of their specialists for Just £49.

Peter Olsson
Spinal DISC Expert in Bedford.

Peter Olsson is one of the UK's leading spinal care experts. Peter (the clinical leader at Atlas Wellness Centre) and his team of fully-trained spinal care specialists have helped over 4,026 patients find relief from agonising slipped discs. He's one of the first professionals in the UK to use Non-Surgical Re-Constructive Spinal Care.

This procedure does not require a hospital stay and in most cases you'll be able to continue with your normal daily activities with little interruption. The focus is on finding - and correcting - the original cause of the slipped disc.

According to Olsson, "We use a combination of ultra-advanced technology, not found elsewhere in the region, for precisely diagnosing the cause of your slipped disc. This means superior long-term results for most people."

On Average 70% of People Find Relief Within 2 Weeks...

Because the treatment is non-surgical, safe, and easy, most patients report an almost immediately relief from their pain.

Patient Jeff P. from Cambridge wrote, "My back pain was unbearable but the worst thing was the searing burning pain I felt in my buttock and leg... my wife insisted I see Peter Olsson. I'm 95% better in just a couple of weeks."

BLUE LIGHTS: Police officers tape off the scene in Dallow Road after the young boy was hit by a car.

Boy, 3, hit by car seriously injured

BY NICK SMITH & KATY HALLAM
editor@lsnmedia.co.uk

A THREE-YEAR-OLD boy has been left seriously injured after being hit by a car in Luton.

Police and paramedics attended the scene in Dallow Road on Wednesday after the boy was knocked down at around 4pm.

The tot was treated at the scene for serious injuries which were not thought to be life threatening.

He was then taken to Luton and Dunstable Hospital, where his condition was described as 'stable'.

Paramedics from the East of England Ambulance Service had to return to Dallow Road later to treat the woman who had been driving the car for shock.

A spokesman for the service said: "We received a call at 3.53pm to reports of a collision between a child and a car. We sent an ambulance crew and an ambulance officer to the scene.

"We treated a young boy who was taken to Luton and Dunstable Hospital for further treatment. It did not appear to be a life threatening injury.

"We were then called back to Dallow Road later on just before 5pm to a woman who had been driving the car to reports she was suffering from shock. A paramedic and a rapid response vehicle attended and they assessed her at the scene, but she did not require any further treatment."

A spokesman for Bedfordshire Police added: "Officers attended, along with other emergency services, and the road was closed while they dealt with the incident. A three-year-old boy was taken to hospital with serious injuries but is in a stable condition."

New cases of FGM in Luton are a 'real concern'

A NEW study has revealed 15 new cases of female genital mutilation have been reported in Luton over the last year.

The statistics, released in a report by the Health and Social Information Centre on Thursday, showed all of the girls affected between April 2015 and March 2016 were either born in Western Africa, or it was their country of origin.

A spokesman for the NSPCC said numbers would only fall when people talked about the issue openly.

They added: "It is of real concern that there are 15 recorded cases of women who have suffered FGM in Luton - particularly when we know that many victims of the procedure endure it at a young age."

A total of 5,700 new cases were recorded across the country.

Police cells get 'overdue' refurb

BY NICK SMITH

nick.smith@lutononsunday.co.uk

A MAJOR refurbishment of custody suites at Luton Police Station has been criticised by a campaign group fighting for justice for one of two men who died in the cells.

Liberty Louise, from the Justice 4 Leon campaign set up after local man Leon Briggs died at the station in November 2013, feels the £500,000 cost could be better spent elsewhere.

She said: "Regardless of what they do with the cells, I think if they want to prevent what happened to Leon and Istiak in the future, the focus should be on training."

Work on the 'long overdue' upgrades started on Monday and are expected to take between 12 and 15 weeks.

Luton Police Station has been a site of controversy over the last three years, after Mr Briggs' death in 2013 was followed by the death of Istiak Yusuf in a cell at the station in June of last year.

Jim Mallen, head of Bedfordshire Police Federation, said: "The improvements are long over-

REVAMP: Luton Police Station's custody suite is getting a much needed refit over the next few weeks and inset, Leon Briggs due and have been needed for a number of decades. The plans have been in place for around three years, it's just been a problem getting enough funding in place, given the cuts the force has been facing in recent years."

The refurbishment will set the force back close to £500,000 and will offer better security, better acoustics and safety measures such as clear doors for patients who may be deemed to be a risk to themselves, according to Bedfordshire Police.

Kathryn Holloway, Police and Crime Commissioner for Bedfordshire, said: "There is a fresh start on the cards here for the community and Force to build confidence in the Custody arrangements in Luton although I need to stress that my own office has a team of Independent Custody Visitors who constantly check conditions experienced by detainees."

Cuts woe for youth offending services

BY JAMES AVERILL
 editor@lmsmedia.co.uk

SERVICES helping to prevent young people re-offending in Luton may have to be merged with Bedfordshire due to crippling budget cuts.

Luton Youth Offending Service is a partnership between Luton Borough Council, Luton CCG, Bedfordshire Police and Bedfordshire National Probation Service.

A series of initiatives help young offenders stay on track, but it has been revealed that discussions could soon start about sharing services across the region with Central Bedfordshire and Bedford.

It comes after severe funding cuts over the last few years, especially from the local authority and the office of the Police and Crime Commissioner.

Reserves of more than £2million will have been exhausted by the middle of 2017.

Councillor Mahmood Hussain, the cabinet member responsible for overseeing the service, said: "We will have to make some changes but most important is that young people have a service.

"At this stage we are at the consultation, but we are not looking at this stage to make redundancies. I'm hoping we don't have to do that."

The Luton service could also explore becoming an independent Public Service Mutual, which would see it leave the public sector but continue delivering public services.

DOZY PARKERS

Just awful

WE'VE seen some truly awful examples of parking in this section of the paper - but this one may just be the most selfish yet.

The driver of this car seemingly couldn't find a place in the Bute Street car park near the station, so opted to just plonk it in the middle of the car park - for more than an hour!

Staggered drivers had to reverse their way around the car park just to get out.

READALLOVER

THIS week's Read All Over features journalism student Charlie Atkinson.

The 20-year-old fancies himself as a reporter of the future, and he's been honing his craft at Luton on Sunday this week.

His work experience stint forms part of his second year at the University of Northampton. Charlie said: "I've really enjoyed it and learnt a lot about the industry in my time here."

BLOGGER OF THE WEEK: Kathryn Faulkner

The Royal residences

THE Bedfordshire Archives and Record Services has been keeping tabs on the history of the area since forming in 1913.

Staff member Kathryn Faulkner now writes in detail of the Middle Age, where Dunstable was actually home to a Royal residency.

ONE of the lesser known facts about Bedfordshire is that during the middle ages both Dunstable and Leighton Buzzard were the sites of royal residences - one purpose built and one probably inherited from Anglo-Saxons.

The royal manor house (sometimes called a 'palace') at Dunstable was the creation of King Henry I.

Dunstable is not mentioned in the Domesday Book and it is likely that there was no settlement on the site of the town at this time, unless a remnant of the Roman town of Durocobrivis survived as a hamlet of the royal manor of Houghton.

The location at the intersection of Watling Street and Icknield Way was too good to miss, and by 1107 King Henry I had founded a new borough at the crossroads.

The convenience of the location led him to build a royal residence on nine acres of land north of what is now Church Street.

The exact location of the building is not known.

An eighteenth century farmhouse, Kingsbury Court, was said to be on the site of the royal 'palace', but no archaeological evidence has been found to prove this.

It has been suggested that Ladies Lodge may be an alternative site.

When King Henry founded Dunstable Priory in 1131 the priory was given near royal authority over the town, which lost its status as a borough.

The royal house, known as Kingsbury, was excluded from the lands given to the priory and reserved for the use of the King. However, the Dunstable Cartulary tells us the house was granted to the priory by King John in 1204.

The royal residence at Leighton Buzzard has much earlier origins. Extensive archaeological excavations carried out in the 1970s and 80s indicate that a considerable manorial site at Grovebury in the south west corner of the parish was in occupation from at least the late Anglo-Saxon period.

The Domesday Book shows that in 1066 Leighton had two mills, one of which was most likely located at Grovebury.

Given its proximity to Yttingaford (now Tiddenfoot), where a treaty was signed between the Saxons and the Danes in 903, the extensive royal lands in the area and the high quality of the manorial buildings, it seems likely that the property may have been used as a royal residence before the Conquest.

During the upheavals of King Stephen's reign the manor declined; in 1155 a survey shows its buildings were dilapidated and its stocks of grain and animals were far lower than they should have been.

The royal connection with Leighton Buzzard disappeared in the fifteenth century; the priory was dissolved and by the end of the century the manor had been given to St George's Chapel, Windsor.

Nothing now remains of the royal residence and its site has been swallowed up by the sand industry.

ON THE BOUNCE: A trampoline park, similar to this one, is due to open in Chaul End Lane

Where's our money?

WHY do clubs only find out through Luton on Sunday the scandal of the Bedfordshire Football Association?

They appear to have lost OUR money but we are told nothing.

A council member tells me they have asked for a special meeting so they can be told, but a meeting has been refused.

Has incompetence lost the clubs all this money?

A concerned - very concerned - club chairman and secretary

Not jumping for joy

WITH reference to the news item 'Go ahead set for trampoline park'.

You must also state that a medical centre may be required as, in my experience, trampolines can be dangerous.

I know, I had one in my garden for my five children and their friends to play on.

But two of the children suffered broken arms after hitting the metal frame.

This included my daughter Gail who still suffers nightmares as a result.

Also, as is obvious, trampolining can have a derogatory mental effect upon your children.

Is temporary enjoyment worth the risk to your children?

Who knows.

AS a white working class male, who do I vote for? The Tories don't want to know me.

Putting the boot in

COULD someone tell me what the fascination is with the Beds FA all of a sudden? Would you hound any other business in this way?

I don't see you reporting on anyone else's business that is struggling financially so why Beds FA?

Rather than trying to pull them apart why not get behind them and the great work they do in trying to get people of all ages and abilities into football in OUR county.

Ask the kids that play every week if they are grateful to them, the disabled, the blind all the people Beds FA help to get into football.

Easy target though I guess and lazy journalism I guess being the bottom line.

Work begins on old Vauxhall Motors site

BY KATY HALLAM
editor@lsmmedia.co.uk

WORK has started on a landmark development on the former Vauxhall Motors site in Luton.

Business and local authority delegates met with other stakeholders on Monday to mark the official beginning of £9 million of infrastructure works at the Napier Park development in Kimpton Road.

An application has already been submitted for 685 sleek flats, as well as a 209-bedroom hotel, shops, restaurants and cafes, drinking establishments, takeaways and leisure facilities on the site.

It is 14 years since the last car came off the Vauxhall production line in Luton. Now the council is hoping investment on the 55-acre site could exceed £600m.

INVESTMENT: Council and business leaders at the launch of works

The initial work - site levelling, road and essential services infrastructure - is being carried out by Blu-3.

Leader of Luton Borough Council Hazel Simmons said it showed Luton was 'unaffectured' by the decision to leave the EU. She added: "The huge investment at Napier Park will deliver a high-quality residential development which will completely transform a barren, steeply sloping site into an attractive new community."

Driver arrested after 'life changing' M25 crash

A MAN from Luton has been arrested in connection with a collision on the M25 which left another male with 'life changing' injuries.

The 44-year-old driver of a grey Mazda sustained the serious injuries when a black Mercedes C Class saloon collided with the back of his car shortly after 5.30am last Sunday. He is now being treated at St Mary's Hospital in Paddington.

The man from Luton, aged 25, has been arrested on suspicion of causing serious injury by dangerous driving and has been bailed by Thames Valley Police until August 18.

Council says no to tinted taxis

BY JAMES AVERILL
editor@lsnmedia.co.uk

PLANS to operate tinted window taxis like limousines from Luton Airport have been dealt a blow by the council.

Addison Lee, which recently won the contract to operate taxis from the site, had wanted to introduce a fleet of 30 'executive vehicles' which featured tinted windows and would be exempt from the display of licence plates.

But Luton Borough Council's taxi licensing panel rejected the move on Monday.

It's a big blow for both Addison Lee, which has said it is exploring an appeal, but also for the airport.

Luton Airport had consistently said that its decision to replace the Luton Hackney Carriage Association with Addison Lee was so that passengers could see an 'improved fleet of vehicles'.

And although Addison Lee has said that service levels have already gone up, it conceded the council's decision not to allow the executive fleet was 'saddening'.

Dr Michael Galvin, head of regulatory affairs with

NEW IN TOWN: Addison Lee has taken over the running of the taxi rank at Luton Airport - but can't run its 'executive' fleet of vehicles

Addison Lee, told Luton on Sunday: "I was more sad than angry. The case we put to the licensing panel was open and honest and presented in good faith, and we felt we had addressed any issues."

"The thought of going to appeal is not something we usually like doing, but we are exploring that process."

Luton Airport declined to comment on the story, but a Luton Borough Council spokesman said: "Given the similarity with other private hire operators and also to the previous hackney carriage provision at the airport, there was no reason to justify departure from the council's policy requiring the grant of a licence with standard operator conditions."

"The standard conditions are imposed for the purpose of protecting customers and the wider public who come into contact with private hire vehicles."

Meah's bounces

We continue our series about the businesses that make our county tick. This week, NICK SMITH spices things up

HE left behind a successful Indian restaurant in order to show that he could go it alone, and after years of struggling it looks to be finally paying off.

Seventeen years ago, Khaled Ahmed opened up Meah's Flavours of India, in a retail unit off Sundon Park Road, Luton, where the business is still based today.

Mr Ahmed said: "My father used to own Meah's in Park Street and I worked there for a while.

"However, clashes with my dad over work made me want to give it a go on my own, making restaurant standard curry sauces for general sale."

Meah's counts Windsor Farm Shop, the royal butchers, among its customers and the business is going from strength-to-strength and has recently been crowned Independent Food Producer of the Year at the Bedfordshire Food Awards.

"Most of my customers are traditional English butchers.

"I also supply delis, upmarket food stalls and have a deal in place with Center Parcs.

"Other sauces, which you can get for 99p serve a purpose, but I wanted a premium product."

Mr Ahmed has said that the majority of his custom is in a 100 mile radius, predominantly from Bedfordshire, Hertfordshire and Oxfordshire, with some customers coming from further afield in the United Kingdom.

He said: "Over the years, we've grown through word of mouth by recommendations."

While the majority of his products are sold to retailers, the company also sells direct to the general public through its website.

While business is now booming, Mr Ahmed recounted: "For the first seven or eight years, it was a real struggle. I had banks chasing me and my dad had to bail me out a few times.

"I was close to packing it in a few times."

However, after all the hardships the company has turned it around and now has five employees, producing between 2,000 and 3,000 pots of sauce a week.

Mr Ahmed added: "I've sacrificed a lot to get to where I am now."

Plea for public help to clean up streets

LUTON Borough Council is calling on the public to help clean up the town.

The authority wants people to identify areas which are affected by flytipping, anti-social behaviour, graffiti, abandoned vehicles, dog waste and noise in a new survey by August 12.

Councillor Rachel Hopkins, portfolio holder for Community Safety & Enforcement, said: "We want the residents of Luton to have their say on environmental issues most important to them and how they impact on their lives."

MPs extend support to fair pension plan

BY NICK SMITH

nick.smith@lutononsunday.co.uk

MPs have been urged to put pressure on parliament to make changes to women's pensions.

This comes after a meeting of Luton Borough Council on Tuesday, where members voted in favour of asking Luton's MPs Gavin Shuker and Kelvin Hopkins to take the call for fairer pensions in parliament.

In 2010 it was decided to make the age at which women and men could claim pensions the same, but Cllr Dolling says that the time-scale implemented has had an unfair affect on women's pensions.

The 1995 and 2011 acts made the age 65 for both men and women, but as a result left women out of pocket and with little time to adapt to the changes.

Both Labour MPs have said they will ask parliament to back the reform of women's pensions.

Mr Hopkins added: "With a change of Prime Minister, and now a woman Prime Minister there may now be hope for a rethink on government policy."

"The only fair way to change the pension age is by a gradual process over many years."

Mr Shuker said: "We've raised this repeatedly in parliament, and have even given six different options to government to soften the impact, but they're not listening."

"As a party we'll continue to oppose these plans."

COMEDY

Ingenious improv

A STANDOUT evening of musical stand-up is the name of the game at The Bear Club this week.

If improvised musical comedy sounds like something you'd find entertaining, then Abandoman will surpass your expectations.

The brainchild of quick-witted Rob Broderick, he interacts with the audience and improvises hip-hop and other music beats just from talking to them and taking tips from the crowd.

And it's good music as well as being hilarious, with Sam Wilson and Dan Atfield creating the riffs to complement the free-flowing quips from Broderick.

By the end of the show you'll be wondering how the mundane life of audience members could tickle your funny bone so much.

The act is as popular as it is original, becoming a staple show on the Edinburgh Fringe scene and selling out one of the biggest venues repeatedly.

The last four years have seen Abandoman tour with multi-platinum artist Ed Sheeran, and headline comedy stages at every major UK music festival including Glastonbury, Latitude, Bestival, Leeds & Reading.

And of course, the beauty of Abandoman's improvised comedy is that even if you've seen them before, no two shows are the same!

If you are heading along, then it's not just Rob and co who will be entertaining you - with two other acts on the bill.

Following a standout show at the Latitude Festival, OH STANDFAST will be switching to the intimate surroundings of the Luton music venue.

Bringing comedy to poetry, OH STANDFIRST commonly refers to himself as a 'shouter of words'.

And whether it's bags for life, Britain or romance, no subject can dodge his sharp tongue.

Compering the evening is James

Redmond, who many will know for his stints on Casualty and Hollyoaks.

James' career path has seen him take on modelling jobs for Calvin Klein, replacing Ant and Dec as a presenter on SMTV and appearing on both Emmerdale and Coronation Street.

Amongst all that he's also forged a decent career on the stand-up scene, so expect plenty of laughs - not just from James but from all three acts.

Tickets are selling out fast, so make sure you head online and get yours from www.wegotickets.com - just search for 'Luton' on their website.

Adults cost £10 (plus a £1 booking fee), with doors opening for the event at 7pm. Music usually starts at 8.30pm at the venue, but check www.the-bear-club for confirmation of final timings.

What's hot in Luton

FANS of boxing can enjoy a treat of an evening on August 13. There will be an electrifying night of charity boxing at The Auction House, with guests including Luton lad and former world champion Billy Schwer (right), as well as the town's unbeaten number one Kay Prospere. There will also be a guest DJ set from Dane Bowers. Tables for ten cost from £400 with a black tie dress code. For more information call 07886 409 346.

THE Disney classic, Beauty and the Beast, is making its way to the Grove Theatre stage from August 11-13. The show has been produced by the Grove Production Project, which gives 100 people a chance to get involved in all aspects of theatre. Tickets are £11 and available by calling 01582 602080.

A PLAY in a greenhouse is the new effort from Lutonian Teresa Burns, who is bringing the play back to her home town. The Little Gardener is an adaptation of the popular children's book by Emily Hughes and will be coming to Stockwood Discovery Centre on Friday and Saturday. Tickets £5.

Does any other financial investment deliver such a handsome dividend?

The effectiveness consultancy Benchmarking have analysed what happens when companies include press advertising in their media mix.

They looked at 500 econometric models, across a five-year period and discovered that adding newspapers dramatically increases the return on investment of other media.

In the financial sector they reviewed companies ranging from high street banks to insurance providers.

And they found that adding newspapers dramatically increases the overall effectiveness of the entire campaign, by up to 5.7 times.

That is getting on for a six-fold increase in ROI.

Clearly, if you are in the financial industry, you ought to be in the newspapers.

But as the table here shows, the uplift in other categories also proves uplifting.

Home of chocolate to be rebuilt

EVERY day millions of us buy a bar of Cadbury's chocolate, usually too busy to think about the extraordinary Cadbury family who set up one of the UK's – and arguably the world's – most famous food companies.

The business was started in 1824 by Quaker John Cadbury as a tea, coffee and chocolate shop designed to lure workers in Birmingham away from alcohol.

By the 1830s, the company was manufacturing its own chocolate and by 1854 Queen Victoria was a customer.

The business expanded rapidly when son George Cadbury took over in 1861 and both a new factory and a whole residential area for its workers was built in Birmingham, called Bourneville.

George and his family moved into Northfield Manor, two miles away from the factory – a large former farmhouse where he and his second wife brought up their eleven children.

This property hit the headlines two years ago when it was set alight by arsonists and was then largely demolished by contractors on behalf of Birmingham University, who had owned the property since the mid-1950s.

There was a public outcry and the university have subsequently promised to rebuild the property brick by brick.

To fund this, it has brought in developer Crest Nicholson, which is to build a housing development within its grounds and rebuild Northfield House as an apartment building, although full planning permission has yet to be granted.

Go back in time with Outlander cottage

THE climax of Amazon Prime's second series of Outlander had fans of Caitriona Balfe's character Claire on the edge of their seats.

Her time travels through 18th century Scotland and later Paris have proved to be gripping drama as author Diana Gabaldon's Outlander novels about the Jacobite revolt have played out on screen, first in 2014 and then again this year.

The locations where the TV series were shot have become tourist attractions in their own right.

The main focus for Outlander tourists is the village of Culross to the east of Dunfermline.

The village, which doubles as Cranesmuir in the TV series, is a 17th century Scottish Royal burgh with cobbled streets and traditional buildings, many of which featured in the TV series.

Eagle-eyed fans will recognise Rowanbank, a four-bedroom house in the village. It has recently been restored in association with the National Trust for Scotland and features a high-beamed lounge, Norwegian wood-burning stove and a pretty, stone-walled garden at the rear.

It's on the market with Maloco & Associates (01383 285835) for £370,000.

Is Hoddle set for a return to England?

Following the poor performance of the England football team at Euro 2016 and the resignation of Roy Hodgson, the search is now on for a new manager for the beleaguered team.

And it now looks likely that Glen Hoddle – who was appointed England manager in 1996 but sacked in 1999 – could be offered the job.

Hoddle is one of football's more colourful characters. As well as a distinguished playing career for Tottenham Hotspur, AS Monaco and England, and successful management stints at Swindon Town, Chelsea and England, Hoddle also released a hit pop record, Diamond Lights in 1987.

He's also a very keen golfer and 13 years ago bought a large villa in the Sotogrande golf resort on the Costa del Sol. In 2008 Hoddle established a football academy in Jerez although in 2011 this was relocated to the UK.

But the 59-year-old says he's now looking to move to a new area of Europe to play golf.

His five-bedroom and four-bathroom Sotogrande villa with landscaped gardens and a swimming pool is currently for sale with Chestertons (020 7201 2071, www.chestertons-international.com) for £2,047,920. It comes with beautiful views over Sotogrande's famous golf course as well as a garage for two cars and a games room.

"I love the area and there are some of the most wonderful golf courses in Europe there," he says. "My favourite part of the house is the terrace. I've spent many, many hours chilling and eating with family and friends."

"The views are wonderful and there is a calmness about sitting there, but feel I want to experience a different place now."

Bedfordshire Vice Chancellor: Listening to students is my top priority

With a rapidly developing portfolio of subjects, an ambitious estates strategy and a growing international profile Vice Chancellor Bill Rammell is a man with plenty on his plate.

“For me, it all comes down to providing a transformative student experience” he says. “My top priority is listening to students, ensuring we are offering world-class facilities and teaching, and preparing students for their future employment”.

During the last four years the University of Bedfordshire has gone from strength to strength. Student satisfaction with teaching and facilities has seen the highest increase in the country, while the national body for university quality has awarded the university a commendation for its enhancement of student learning opportunities. The University has also seen a sharp improvement in the quality of its research and in 2013 won the prestigious Queen’s Anniversary Prize for its pioneering research into child sexual exploitation.

What does Rammell consider to be the most significant achievement of the University in the past ten years? “We contribute about £300million annually to the Bedfordshire economy” says Rammell, “and our core mission is to serve our local community. But since 2006 we have built a global presence, recruiting from over 100 countries and developing partnerships with universities as far afield as Vietnam, Egypt and Nepal. We are cutting edge in the opportunities we offer to students to travel internationally during their studies”.

And the next ten years? “My ambition for the University is that we build on our strengths of providing outstanding support for our students while adapting how we do things to meet the needs of the students of the twenty-first century. That will involve working closely with the community in Bedford and Luton. We have opened our new state-of-the-art library this summer in Luton. We will start to break ground on a new Science building very shortly, and we are planning to work with employers in the region to offer new higher apprenticeships. We are very much a University that is open for business”.

The new Luton library

- 1976 Merger with Putteridge Bury College of Education to become Luton College of Higher Education

- 2006 University of Bedfordshire formed from merger of University of Luton and Bedford campus of De Montfort University

Teaching that is rooted in world-class research

University of Bedfordshire students have access to world-leading academics undertaking cutting-edge research in the classroom. This allows students to develop a deep understanding of the types of challenges industry faces and the knowledge-based skills and critical thinking needed to solve them.

For example, University of Bedfordshire researchers David Jazani and Mark Hooper recently used 3D printing technology to create a hand for an 8-year old boy who had been born without fingers.

The University's research is designed to tackle current and emerging real-world problems. Researchers work directly with partners in industry, government and the public sector to address the challenges of life in the twenty-first century such as cyber crime, workplace wellbeing, healthy aging and self-management of long-term illness.

In the 2014 Research Excellence Framework nearly half of University of Bedfordshire research was rated internationally excellent or world-leading, the highest ratings possible. The University has also been awarded the prestigious Queen's Anniversary Prize for its pioneering work on prevention of child sexual exploitation, violence and trafficking.

"Lots of universities are churning out papers that aren't rooted in community issues" says Gurch Randhawa, Professor of Diversity in Public Health. "You should give things back – and if your research informs practice, chances are you can improve people's lives."

What can you do with a degree from the University of Bedfordshire? Anything you want!

Graduating in 2007 Gavin O'Brien quickly became one of the youngest producers at the well-known shopping channel QVC. He now owns his own production company Clearhead and regularly takes on students as interns and graduate trainees.

Former Sunday Times Sports Personality of the Year, Maggie Alphonsi graduated from the University with a degree in Sports and Exercise Science in 2006. She is one of the world's leading female international rugby players with 49 England caps under her belt.

Sophie Meola started her own fashion and lifestyle blog while studying Marketing Management at the University and was shortlisted twice for the annual Cosmopolitan Blog Awards. She is now Marketing Manager for Ingram Micro.

Viv Long graduated from the University with a degree in Public Relations. She now works for Luton Town Football Club as a Commercial Assistant following a placement year working for them as part of her degree. Viv's ultimate ambition is to work as the Commercial Director for a Premier League club.

Former Media Performance student Sam Darlaston now works as a presenter on Kiss FM having worked on the University's community radio station, Radio LaB 97.1f. He also gained work experience in a paid role at Applause Store working on shows such as the X Factor helping to organise the audience.

Sarah Jane Cass graduated 2007 with a BA (Hons) Media Performance and Radio. She worked on the reality TV show Big Brother after graduating and now has her own talent company, Talent SJC. In 2014 Sarah Jane was recognised as an under 30s Broadcast Hotshot in the media trade magazine Broadcast.

Eighteen years ago, Tamara-Lee Notcutt was frantically calling the University's Clearing phone lines trying to claim one of the last spots on the BA Media Performance with Production Management course. Now, she's an Emmy-nominated Senior Casting Director at Walt Disney Studios in LA responsible for choosing the likes of Chris Hemsworth for the role of Thor.

Richard Sackey-Addo, did a Bsc in Sports and Exercise Science and now works as a research officer for the International Tennis Federation, based in Valencia. His role includes helping to improve the quality of tennis coaching worldwide, and he has previously worked with some of the UK's top junior players.

Despite being initially sceptical about university, Charlie Hughes decided he needed to enter Higher Education to further his career after a year out working in retail. After doing a degree in Business Studies Charlie is now the outgoing President of the Students' Union and hopes to work in the third sector.

Tom Bromley did a BSc Sports Science and Personal Training and is now working as First Team and Academy Sports Science, Fitness and Conditioning Coach at professional football team, MK Dons. Tom chose the University of Bedfordshire for his degree due to what he felt were excellent facilities and 'sought after' staff.

Our students say...

"Being a student at Bedfordshire gives you so much more than a degree – it means being treated as full partner in your educational experience and developing yourself as a global citizen, whatever your background and aspirations.

Whether it is acting as a peer mentor, shaping the academic curriculum, leading a student society, playing on a sports team or working with University staff to improve the student experience, students have so many opportunities to grow their confidence and develop their skills at Bedfordshire.

TARA ALADE,
Sports Therapy graduate and Bedfordshire Students' Union President 2016-17

"In 2014 I went on the Go Global trip to Nanjing, China. Previous to this the idea that I would visit China was non-existent. I had never considered it because it just wasn't an option – intercontinental travel was a luxury my family had never been able to afford. I am now the first in my nuclear family to leave Europe (thank you Beds!). The trip consisted of 2 weeks of classes, trips and tours jam-packed. I learned everything from martial arts to Chinese calligraphy. I can't imagine a better way of developing and honing the critical reasoning skills that are so crucial to career success than by broadening your understanding of the boundaries of society."

ANGELO KARVELAS,
Marketing graduate, 2015

Practice-based learning

At the University of Bedfordshire we believe that what's most important is not just what students learn but how they learn. Our focus is on empowering our students to acquire pride in their achievements and confidence in their capabilities, paving the way for future success. Our students get to develop their practice working in media production, creating fashion blogs, solving business problems, and developing their skills on the ward or teaching in a local school.

Outside the classroom there are further opportunities for personal and professional development. Student volunteering combines the best of active learning with giving something back to the community. Each year University of Bedfordshire students chalk up over 40,000 hours of community volunteering.

One example is The Refugee Legal Aid project, the only project of its kind in the country. Students assist refugees to complete family reunion applications, which would otherwise involve costly legal fees. So far over 60 individuals, mostly young children, have been reunited with their families in England.

The Bedfordshire Green Hub has facilitated students to champion green initiatives around the University and in the community. Beds Buzz is a student-led beekeeping project that is great for the local environment because the healthy bee population can pollinate many flowering plants in Bedfordshire and beyond, therefore stimulating biodiversity.

Kimberley Stirling the University's Volunteer Manager based in the students' union says, "I love seeing students once they have volunteered somewhere for a while and finding out about how they feel it's helped them. I know from first-hand experience that without my voluntary experience I wouldn't be where I am now, so I hope that I can empower our students to find something that helps them in the future".

Promptmove offers house owners to sell their properties for £499 in Luton

The property market is going through a transition and the new 'online' estate agents are the main cause behind it. Whitman Howard, an institutional stockbroking and investment banking business, analysis the situation "The estate agency sector won't have a very good time in the next year because activity looks static, and ... People, ... are becoming more price sensitive about how they sell their homes."

Aqeel Saqlain, the CEO at Promptmove, states that the time is right to offer the market a complete and cost-effective service. He points out "The customers desire that they receive full service from their estate agent and that the service is cost-effective. It is only fair that the desire of the market is respected."

Downton's Grantham Arms for sale

Yorkshire, although many of the locations are in and around Oxfordshire and Berkshire including Downton Abbey (Highclere Castle near Newbury), Yew Tree Farm (Cogges near Witney) and Mallerton Hall (Ditchley Park near Kiddlington).

The village of Downton is in reality Bampton-in-the-Bush, five miles west of Oxford. It has frequently featured in the TV series and Mayville, a honey-coloured semi-detached house on Church Close, was dressed up to look like the pub.

The house overlooks the village's main church and has four bedrooms and a courtyard garden and is for sale via agent Scott Fraser (01993 705507) for £450,000.

FOR A lowly village pub, the Grantham Arms plays an amazingly central role in the hit drama Downton Abbey, better known for its chandeliers, high society and silverware than pints on the bar.

The millions of viewers who tuned in to series, which ran for 52 episodes over six series between 2010 and 2015, got used to the comings and goings at the pub - which featured in five episodes.

Most famously, the pub was home to Tom Branson, the Crawley family's chauffeur and later son-in-law, played by Allen Leech.

He lodges at the Grantham Arms after his dismissal from Downton Abbey following his engagement to Lady Sybil, played by Jessica Findlay.

The pub carries the arms of the fictional Earl of Grantham which is supposedly in

Merc's live van brochure

BY IAN JOHNSON

PROVING the light commercials van market is really driving ahead, the Mercedes-Benz VanExperience Live event welcomed more than 2,500 guests – an all-time record for the brand.

In its 13th year, the event, held at Millbrook Proving Ground in Bedfordshire, saw 241 Mercedes-Benz Vans available for guests to put through their paces across key sections of the site, including the famous off-road track, high-speed bowl and Alpine Circuit.

Open for all van operators, VanExperience Live took place across 10 days with three main hands-on demonstration areas to help guests assess how Mercedes-Benz Vans perform in all areas.

There was a full range drive to experience the entire product line-up, and compare them directly with competitor test vehicles.

In addition there was a challenging off-road course to show the skills of the Sprinter 4x4 and 6x6 vehicles plus a safety-focused activity, including handling on the all-new wet grip experience.

With experts on-hand throughout the event, guests used their time at VanExperience Live to fully understand the range of products and services offered by Mercedes-Benz Vans and how the brand is keeping business moving.

The event also focused on maximising uptime for vehicles, including discussions and demonstrations on: MobiloVan free roadside assistance; accessories to personalise any Mercedes-Benz van; genuine parts and their importance; and the adaptable finance and insurance solutions to suit customers' requirements.

A complete display of vehicles was also available to access, including vans from more than 41 body builder and conversion exhibitors to show how flexible a van can be.

A total of 46,500 miles were travelled during the two week event, with 23,620 cups of tea and coffee and 1,136 litres of milk drunk, and 1,480 Danish pastries and 7,730 sausage, bacon and egg rolls consumed in the morning.

For lunch 1,960 chicken breasts were served, alongside 320kg of beef and 3,500 punnets of strawberries.

Summing up the occasion Steve Bridge, managing director, Mercedes-Benz Vans UK, said:

"VanExperience Live is like no other LCV-focused event in the UK. We pride ourselves on providing our guests with the ultimate test drive; a real-life brochure to better understand our products, people, and processes that we adopt to keep businesses moving."

"The great British weather didn't even put a dampener on the event, as we had nearly 1,000 additional guests attending compared to VanExperience Live 2015, which is a fantastic achievement and a sign of how popular it is."

Toyota Prius

Take a look inside. . .

BY JOHN MURDOCH

YOU might not like the looks of the new Toyota Prius but you will certainly be impressed by its engineering and technology.

The Prius famously started the hybrid revolution and quickly became the vehicle of choice for environmentally-conscious drivers who wanted to reduce their running costs. To be honest, I have never really been a fan of hybrids, so I was pleasantly surprised by the improvements the new car delivers.

You will either like or hate the sharp styling but they are all there for a reason - to reduce drag for greater efficiency.

The Prius sits on a brand new platform which will be used in a raft of new Toyotas and all the big parts - engine, gearbox, electric motor and battery pack have been considerably improved.

Toyota is claiming new benchmarks in fuel economy, emissions and efficiency from the new car, which is cleaner than ever.

The Prius is able to operate in petrol and electric modes as well as in a combination of both.

When you set off gently, it automatically operates in EV mode, using electric motor power alone and if you are on the morning commute it will crawl along nicely just using battery power. When the time comes to go quicker the petrol engine cuts in and does the business.

The interior is much improved and the Excel model tested offers stacks of kit. The equipment list includes dual-zone climate control, leather upholstery and heated front seats, a head-up display, dusk-sensing headlights, rain-sensing wipers, smart entry and start, park assist, wireless phone charger and a 10 speaker audio system.

You also get Toyota Touch 2 with Go PLUS which included a 7in touchscreen, DAB radio and CD player, satnav, a text to speech function SMS text and email display, advanced Bluetooth, WiFi hotspot and access to online services.

The Prius also has all the latest safety features including hill-start assist, a blind spot monitor, tyre pressure warning system and Toyota's pre-collision system with pedestrian detection.

There is a high tech feel to the cabin and while the Prius is not a sporting drive, it is smooth, quiet and refined. Prices start from £23,295 and the top of the range test car came in at £27,450 before adding £495 for hypersonic red paint.

Jeep Wrangler birthday special

By: Stewart Smith

JEEP has announced changes to its popular and successful Wrangler range of SUV models, including an uprated engine and a special edition 75th birthday model. Jeep Wrangler's existing 2.8-litre diesel engine has been updated to meet Euro 6 emission standards while the car has been given a series of important and valuable updates. In addition, and to celebrate the iconic 4x4 brand's 75th birthday, Jeep has also revealed details of a 75th Anniversary limited edition Wrangler for the UK. The car was first revealed at the Geneva Motor Show in March. The 75th Anniversary is based on the Overland level model and features several key differences, including unique exterior styling and part-leather interiors. The outside has a bronze-finished front grille and 18-inch alloy wheels, body-coloured dual top, Mopar slush mats, unique bronze and orange Jeep badging, and a special 75th Anniversary badge. It comes in either Bright White, Solid Black or Sarge Green paint finishes and inside it gets "1941" embossed leather heated seats in black or saddle brown and tangerine bronze accents on air vents and grab handles. The special is also fitted with sat nav plus an Alpine premium sound system and deep tinted sunscreen glass. Prices for the birthday models start at £34,765 for the 2-door 2.8 CRD Auto rising to £36,435 for the four-door 3.6 V6 Auto. Wrangler Sahara, Overland and Rubicon models have been given new kit, including front side airbags, deep-tint sunscreen glass, 18-inch Rubicon satin alloy wheels, Mopar slush mats and black, heated leather seats. The Jeep Wrangler range now starts at £31,840 for the two-door Sahara 2.8 CRD Auto, rising to £34,910 for the four-door Rubicon 3.6 V6 Auto.

British car workers 'best in Europe'

By: Robin Roberts

WORKERS in UK motor vehicle manufacturing are the most efficient in Europe, according to leading automotive economist Professor Garel Rhys. The former head of Cardiff Business School and President of the Centre for Automotive Industry Research Cardiff University, Prof Rhys also said Europe has more to lose if it "rashly" introduces tariffs on trade. "Official figures for UK motor industry employment is 162,000 in 2015 which gives productivity figure of 10.5 vehicles-per-employee," said Prof Rhys. "This order of magnitude of productivity explains why, in gross value added per head, UK motor industry employment efficiency is the highest in Europe." To this industrial figure must be added employees in components manufacturing, motor retail, service and repair, logistic companies and related support services which bring the overall total to 814,000, he added. "The Society of Motor Manufacturers and Traders, to increase its political clout a few years ago lumped all the employees into one figure but this backfired on them when you then divided that total into the number of vehicles made which suggested UK motor manufacturing was highly inefficient compared to the rest of Europe and last year it would have been 2.1 vehicles per employee. "Luckily this is not the case and when you use the official figure of 162,000 industry workers in 2015 it gives a productivity figure of 10.5 vehicles-per-employee, the highest in Europe," he said. Prof Rhys, who is chairman of the Welsh Automotive Forum added that not only was UK vehicle production efficient the best in Europe but the nature of the industry meant Germany was heavily reliant on it as a customer base for components and manufacturing. "Imports from the EU dominate the UK vehicle sales market, and 60 per cent of the value of systems and components used to make British cars are mainly imported from the EU," he said. "Ultimately, almost 40 per cent of the UK market is in the hands of Germany and any tariffs introduced by the EU after Brexit, would severely hurt their industrial bases on the Continent, both supplying parts and then receiving completed vehicles which are exported. It makes no sense."

SKODA TOPS FOR RELIABILITY

By: Stewart Smith

CZECH car maker Skoda has topped the ranks of automotive brands for vehicle dependability in the UK. The company has recorded back-to-back victories in the J.D. Power UK Vehicle Dependability Study with two models, the Fabia and Yeti, topping their sector for quality and reliability. The study measured problems experienced during the past 12 months by original owners of vehicles in the UK after 12-36 months of ownership. The findings were based on responses from more than 13,000 owners of 2013-2015 models.

J.D. Power examined 177 problem symptoms across eight categories: engine and transmission; vehicle exterior; driving experience; features/controls/displays, audio/communication/entertainment/navigation, seats, heating, ventilation and cooling and vehicle interior. Overall dependability was determined by the number of problems experienced per 100 vehicles with a lower score reflecting higher quality. Skoda ranked the highest for vehicle dependability with a score of 66 – an even better result than the brand recorded in last year. The overall industry average was 113 problems per 100 vehicles. The 2016 survey also studied vehicle dependability in key sectors and, once again, Skoda models were at the top of two categories. The Fabia was ranked at the most dependable car in the Small Car category, while the Yeti finished top of the Compact SUV sector. The Octavia also performed well, finishing second in the Compact Car category. In the overall J.D. Power study, Suzuki ranked second with 79 PP100, followed by Kia with 80 PP100; Vauxhall with 90 PP100; and Peugeot and Volkswagen in a tie with 92 PP100 each. The overall industry average is 113 PP100, a slight improvement from 114 PP100 in 2015. After the Fabia and Yeti, the Ford B-MAX, Kia Picanto, Mercedes-Benz E-Class, Toyota Auris and Vauxhall Insignia were the most dependable models in their respective classes.

MAZDA2 HAS RED LETTER DAY

By: Stewart Smith

MAZDA is offering a special edition supermini but only 400 versions of this up-market Mazda2 are being offered - and it goes on sale from September 1. It's called the Mazda2 Red Edition and is based on the 90bhp SE-L Nav Mazda2 model. The special comes with extra equipment and offered with a choice of Snowflake White Pearllescent or Black Mica paint, and the Red Edition's design cues include 'Soul Red' accents on the wing mirror covers, rear spoiler and rear underskirt and the sporty look can be enhanced with optional £300 Dark Gunmetal 15-inch alloy wheels. Inside, the red theme continues with red cloth seat trim, red knee pad inserts and red door trim inserts, while a red and white panel on the dash adds a large sweep of colour across the dash. Power comes from Mazda's 90bhp 1.5-litre SKYACTIV-G petrol engine which is rated at 62.8mpg and CO2 emissions of 105g/km. The Red Edition is priced from £14,995 which is £600 more than the regular model

SCOTLAND'S MISSING E-TYPE FOUND

By: Mike Torpey

A missing Jaguar E-Type, one of the most sought-after early examples of the model, has been discovered in Scotland and will go under the hammer at the Silverstone Classic on July 30-31. The location of the 1961 Jaguar E-Type Series 1 Roadster, chassis #62 and one of the first 92 right-hand models produced, has been a mystery to classic car historians for decades. With most of the first 20 cars produced being allocated for competition use, the first road cars - distinguished by their outside bonnet locks - were supplied in July 1961 to Jaguar dealerships to be used as demonstrators. This car was dispatched to Scotland that month via Henleys of London for demo use in the Edinburgh area and was eventually acquired by its fifth and current owner in 2013 - a resident of Deskford, Moray, who was unaware that he was in possession of this 'Holy Grail' car. Now to be offered on the open market for the first time, and reinstated as a surviving early example with its Jaguar Heritage Certificate, Chassis #62 will go to auction with a sale estimate of between £140,000 and £170,000.

NEW FIAT QUBO FOR THE UK

By: Stewart Smith

FIAT's little Qubo MPV has been given a major update and is going on sale in the UK with new-look styling and a more up-market interior. The latest Qubo retains its supermini-size 3.96-metre long and 1.7-metre wide dimensions with room for five adults and a large 250-litre boot - which grows to 650 litres when the parcel shelf is out or 2,500 litres with the rear seats removed. It can also be equipped with an optional folding front passenger seat allowing long objects of up to 2.5-metres to be carried. The Qubo has a new exterior look with larger, high-mounted headlamps plus a new front grille and chunky new front bumper. Trekking versions - with greater ground clearance and an advanced traction system to give more all-weather capability - also get new skid plates panels in the front and rear bumpers, as well as special side mouldings, both with silver inserts, and special Trekking alloy wheels with mud-and-snow tyres. The interior on all versions is improved with new steering wheel design, black mirror-finish detailing on the steering wheel spokes and centre console surround, new instruments, new seat upholstery and new infotainment options including a new Uconnect system with a five-inch colour touchscreen and Bluetooth connectivity, USB and aux-in ports as well as the option of satellite navigation. It will be offered in three trim levels: Pop, Lounge and Trekking with standard equipment on the entry level Pop model including remote door mirrors, body coloured bumpers and mirror covers, height-adjustable driver's seat with lumbar support and an arm rest and opening rear quarter-light windows. The Pop version is powered by Fiat's 77bhp 1.4-litre petrol engine, the Lounge comes with an 80bhp 1.3-litre Multijet II turbo diesel power pack or the 1.4 petrol, and the Trekking version comes with a 95bhp 1.3-litre Multijet II turbo diesel. Price for the Pop is £11,695, the Lounge starts at £12,695 and the Trekking comes in at £16,695.

Calls for Russia ban are warranted

WE'RE just under two weeks away from the start of the 2016 Olympic Games, but 'The Greatest Show on Earth' has a huge shadow hanging over it after the full extent of Russia's alleged state-sponsored doping programme was revealed.

We already know Russian athletes, apart from a select few competing neutrally, will take no part in Rio after the Court of Arbitration for Sport mercifully upheld the IAAF's ban, which was imposed in November last year.

For many this isn't enough after a WADA-commissioned report, led by Canadian law professor Dr Richard McLaren, claimed that as many as 580 positive drug tests from 30 different sports were covered up between 2011 and 2015.

This was apparently done by

SENSITIVE SUBJECT: Calls for Russia to be banned from the Olympics in Rio are growing louder disposing of urine samples and replacing them with frozen samples that were given by that athlete before they began doping and gave the impression they were competing clean.

Seeing as around 130 of these were from athletics, it's no surprise that their appeals were given short shrift by an authority (CAS) sometimes known for its leniency.

But given the scale of Russia's deception, we're left with the very real prospect of an Olympics taking place without one of its leading nations because it decided it no longer wanted to play fair.

The McLaren Report claims that Russia decided to cheat after the 2010 Winter Olympics in Vancouver, where they won what they felt was an 'abysmal' 15 medals.

Normally when a country performs below expectations at an Olympics, they improve their sporting infrastructure to make sure the same mistakes are not repeated.

Great Britain is a perfect example of this. In Atlanta in 1996, they came away with just 15 medals, with Steve Redgrave and Matthew Pinsent bringing home the one and only gold.

This persuaded the authorities urgent changes had to be made to British sport, which was given much greater funding for a more professional approach to be adopted.

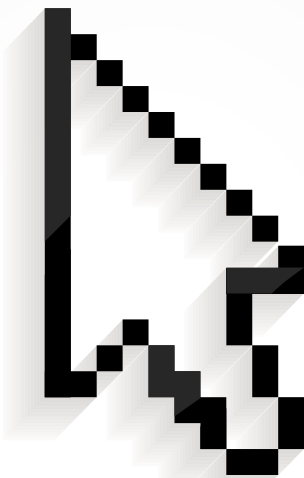

This has brought results ever since, with the next Games in Sydney bringing 28 medals (11 golds) and things have skyrocketed to the extent that Team GB came away from London 2012 with 65 medals and 29 golds.

Instead, Russia has decided to take shortcuts by doping a large number of its athletes, thus cheating those from competing nations out of medals.

They are not the only country guilty of this, but their doping programme is on such a scale that it's left people struggling to believe what they're seeing on the track or in the field is genuine.

If the same is true in other sports, such as swimming, gymnastics or weightlifting then we simply can't trust Russia and if that's the case a blanket ban is completely warranted.

Staffordshire break down Howgego resistance

A CENTURY from opener Ben Howgego wasn't enough for Bedfordshire, as they were unable to save themselves from defeat on the final day of their Minor Counties Championship match against Staffordshire.

With Beds set an improbable 489 to win, Howgego came up with his second ton of the season – 101 off 177 balls – as part of a 148-run partnership with captain Andy Reynoldson either side of lunch.

But once the former Northamptonshire man was dismissed, the hosts fell in a heap, eventually losing their last six wickets for just 59 runs in what was their second Championship defeat of the season.

In truth, Staffordshire controlled this match practically from start to finish, not least thanks to their opener Kadeer Ali (brother of England international Moeen Ali) striking centuries in both innings.

Bedfordshire won the toss and chose to field, but after Chris Watt took the visitors' first two wickets, Staffs' Peter Wilshaw smashed a brilliant 98 off just 84 balls, including four sixes.

By the time Ali perished on 135, the damage had very much been done and after Tim Maxfield continued to make them toil by blasting 64, Staffordshire declared.

To cap a testing first day for Bedfordshire, they ended

LOSING EFFORT: Ben Howgego stuck his second ton of the season

it on 66-3 after losing Jay Parmar and night-watchman Colin Griggs in quick succession just before the close. Wickets continued to tumble at regular intervals on day two with only Luke Thomas and wicketkeeper Nick Barden providing any real resistance with 74 and 56 respectively.

The medium pace of Brinder Pragura proved to be particularly troublesome for the hosts, as he took 5-63 to help earn the visitors a first-innings lead of 228.

However, they chose not to enforce the follow-on, instead deciding to keep their foot firmly on Bedfordshire's throat, as Ali raced towards his second ton of the match.

The former Worcestershire and Leicestershire batsmen eventually hammered 129 off just 109 deliveries, including 13 fours and sixes, as part of a second-wicket stand of 193 with Tom Steele, who added 76.

After deciding they had a big enough lead to defend, the hosts were given just over a day to save themselves, but when Reynoldson came to the crease, things were looking bleak at 86-3.

However, the skipper was to dig in alongside Howgego, eventually being trapped lbw on 97 by Greg Willott (4-33).

Howgego had by then fallen in the same manner to Paul Byrne, who took 4-77, and Staffordshire were to run through Bedfordshire's tail, confirming their victory when Willott dismissed Dean Bryce.

Marriott commits future to Hatters

JACK Marriott insists he never looked at the possibility of joining another club this summer after signing a new three-year contract at Luton Town on Wednesday.

The 21-year-old's new deal was a reward for a superb first season at Kenilworth Road, after signing from Ipswich Town, that saw him finish the campaign as the Hatters' top scorer with 16 goals.

And the signs are good for next season after Marriott scored an 11-minute hat-trick in the 9-0 pre-season thrashing of Bedford Town last weekend.

Marriott said: "I'm more than happy to sign for another three years. I've never been looking to leave because I'm settled at Luton Town and the club is heading in the right direction.

"We've got all the plans for the new stadium, the manager has got high ambitions for where he wants to take the club and I want to be a part of all of that."

Marriott reserved praise for the Hatters' manager Nathan Jones, saying: "The performances have improved and the signings he's brought in – as well as the young players he's given a chance to – have made everyone up their game."

'Jack has been outstanding'

NUMBER ONE FAN: Nathan Jones praised Jack Marriott's recent form

FOOTBALL

BY JAMES CUNLIFFE

sport@lsnmedia.co.uk

MANAGER Nathan Jones believes Luton have shown their ambition by tying hotshot striker Jack Marriott down to a new three-year contract.

The 21-year-old fired a brace to beat Championship side Brighton 2-1, with his opener coming in 25 seconds. He's now blasted five pre-season goals in two outings and, after finishing last season as Town's top scorer, he this week penned his third contract extension since signing on a one-year deal last May.

He's now signed up to stay at Kenilworth Road until 2019 and Jones said: "Jack's clinical and that's what he's showing.

"He's been outstanding so far in pre-season. If he only didn't have sunstroke the other day, he probably would have scored even more.

"He's in good form at the moment. He's come back sharp and that's why we've taken the chance to renew his contract for even longer. The club have been fantastic with that, to be fair, and shown their ambition."

Marriott said: "It was pleasing to get it [contract] done and dusted, really. It was something we were looking to do, [something] the gaffer was looking to do and I was just glad to get it sorted out and signed. I'm looking forward to the future."

It is understood that Luton had to rebuff transfer interest in the forward this summer, but Marriott said: "The club is going in the right direction. I've never been looking to leave."

The Hatters also added another striker to their roster prior to the Brighton victory, with trialist Isaac Vassell handed a one-year deal.

The 22-year-old, who scored 24 goals in two seasons at National League South side Truro City, missed the Seagulls test with an illness after featuring against Bedford and Boreham Wood.

"We won't want to compare him with anyone because he hasn't been brought in to be like Jack Marriott; we want a different one, otherwise we wouldn't have brought him in," said Jones, adding: "I would imagine if you're going to compare him to anyone it's Andre Gray, but he's not Andre Gray, he's Isaac Vassell.

"We'd love to get him to a level where he's in that category, but it's early stages, let's let him settle in, let's work with him and see where he goes."

Hatters ace doubles up

FOOTBALL

BY JAMES CUNLIFFE
sport@lntmedia.co.uk

LUTON TOWN 2
BRIGHTON & HOVE ALBION 1

LUTON boss Nathan Jones might be best served by wrapping Jack Marriott in cotton wool and storing the striker away until the first game of the season. He is ready.

And, on the evidence here, so too are the manager's new-look Hatters side, or squad, to be precise.

It's one thing to smash an 11-minute hat-trick in a 30-minute, second half pre-season cameo against non-league Bedford, but Marriott needed only 25 seconds to smash one past Championship Brighton.

And, after the Seagulls had levelled against the run of play, just before the break, the hit-man – Town's top scorer last term – notched his fifth goal in two games.

It's a very good job indeed that, earlier in the week, the Hatters tied Marriott down to a new three-year contract to keep him in this parish until 2019, or Jones might have also needed to turn his phone off until the transfer window shuts on August 31.

Yet there was much more for him and the Kenilworth Road crowd to drool over as – barring Tom Cadman and Will Collar – Albion fielded a team full of first-team players but were decidedly second best.

Alongside Marriott, Danny Hylton was a menace up top and should have scored his second and third of the summer while, in Alan Sheehan, Town appear to have uncovered a dead-ball specialist, who is equally adept at pinging a series of laser-guided, counter-attack-ready Hollywood balls to wide men.

MAIN MAN: Jack Marriott celebrates his second goal against Brighton, which proved to be the winner

Elsewhere, Cameron McGeehan was played in his most effective, advanced midfield position, Pelly-Ruddock Mpanzu was all-action, Scott Cuthbert returned from injury and six Hatters youngsters were given more game time in the second period.

Those young guns should look no further than Marriott for inspiration of how to take your chance, both in terms of first-team football and in front of goal.

Still only 21 years old himself, he opened the scoring in lightning-quick fashion, latching onto a misplaced pass by Lewis Dunk, ruthlessly punishing the Brighton centre back with a low scorcher from the 18-yard line. Not bad for a man who missed Tuesday's Boreham

Wood game with sunstroke.

McGeehan and Hylton both went close as the Hatters strutted some silky stuff, which meant that the visitors had to wait until the 36th minute for a shot at goal, with Anthony Knockaert clipping the top of the crossbar with a free-kick.

When Brighton did pull themselves level with a 42nd minute Dunk header it was more down to a lack of concentration from Town's defence, which was the only real cause for concern, as Rohan Ince and the skipper both had the freedom of Kenilworth Road at the back stick.

Hylton should have restored Luton's lead just before the break but headed wide and then, after the interval, Johnny Mullins was denied at the back post by goalie Niki Maenpaa and Mpanzu's follow-up was scooped off the line by Dunk. The supplier for both chances? Sheehan.

For a team that had barely been threatened, Luton were saved for the second time by the woodwork when Elvis Manu slipped through on goal and smashed the underside of the bar.

While that was just poor finishing from the Albion striker, Hylton did everything right at the other end but was denied by a stunning Maenpaa save, straight out of the Gordon Banks school of goalkeeping.

But strike partner Marriott was soon on the scoresheet again, supplying a cool, confident flick from close range after a short corner routine from Sheehan and O'Donnell.

This, like most friendlies, will get filed away under 'the score doesn't really matter' but the performance should spread new-season-anticipation like wildfire among the Hatters faithful – not least because, in Marriott, Luton have a one-man heatwave.

Permission to get excited? League Two beware.
